

7 Plug-and-Play Dispute Reasons That Leverage Metro 2 + FCRA Violations

CREDIT COMEBACK CLUB

WHAT IS METRO 2?

Metro 2 is the industry-standard format used by creditors to report consumer credit information to the major credit bureaus (Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion). This standardized reporting format contains over 100 fields of data that paint the complete picture of your credit history.

KEY POINT: Most consumers don't realize that errors in Metro 2 data fields are a primary cause of credit report inaccuracies that can unfairly damage your score.

"At Credit Comeback Club, we've identified Metro 2 errors on over 90% of credit reports we analyze. These aren't minor mistakes—they're costing you points on your credit score."

WHAT IS E-OSCAR?

E-OSCAR (Online Solution for Complete and Accurate Reporting) is the automated system used by credit bureaus to process disputes. When you file a dispute, it gets processed through the E-OSCAR system, which communicates with creditors electronically.

HOW IT WORKS:

1. You submit a dispute to the credit bureau
2. The credit bureau converts your dispute into an Automated Consumer Dispute Verification (ACDV)
3. The ACDV is sent to the creditor through E-OSCAR
4. The creditor investigates and responds through E-OSCAR
5. The credit bureau updates your report based on the response

EXPERT TIP: The E-OSCAR system often uses standardized codes that can limit how thoroughly your dispute is investigated. Our Credit Comeback Club specialists know how to craft disputes that overcome these limitations. Schedule a free consultation →

CREDIT REPORT ERROR CHECKLIST

Use this checklist to quickly identify potential Metro 2 errors in your credit report:

ACCOUNT STATUS ERRORS

- ☐ Accounts showing as "charged off" that were settled or paid
- ☐ Collections showing as "open" that were paid
- ☐ Closed accounts showing as "open"
- ☐ Accounts showing late payments when payments were made on time

DATE ERRORS

- ☐ Date of First Delinquency (DOFD) changed after account was sold/transferred
- ☐ Account open dates that don't match when you actually opened the account
- ☐ Negative items older than 7 years still appearing on your report
- ☐ Incorrect late payment dates

BALANCE ERRORS

- ☐ Current balances showing on paid/settled accounts
- ☐ Incorrect high credit/credit limit amounts
- ☐ Balance amounts that don't match your records
- ☐ Incorrect past due amounts

ACCOUNT OWNERSHIP ERRORS

- ☐ Accounts that don't belong to you
- ☐ Authorized user accounts reported as primary accounts
- ☐ Accounts appearing multiple times under different names
- ☐ Joint accounts not properly identified

CREDITOR INFORMATION ERRORS

- ☐ Original creditor not properly identified on collection accounts
- ☐ Incorrect creditor contact information
- ☐ Multiple creditors reporting the same debt
- ☐ Creditor name doesn't match your records

✓ PRO TIP: Check each identified error against all three credit bureaus—errors often appear on one report but not others. This inconsistency itself can be grounds for a dispute!

7 POWERFUL METRO 2 DISPUTE REASONS & STRATEGIES

1. INCORRECT ACCOUNT STATUS CODES

WHAT TO LOOK FOR: Accounts showing incorrect status like "charged off" when you settled the debt, or "collection" when you've paid in full.

EXAMPLE SCENARIO: You negotiated a settlement with a creditor for 60% of the balance and received a letter confirming the settlement. However, your credit report still shows the account as "charged off" instead of "settled" or "paid settlement."

DISPUTE STRATEGY: Request verification of the account status code and provide documentation of the settlement agreement. Cite the creditor's obligation under the FCRA to report accurate status codes.

SUCCESS STORY: "After 3 failed attempts at fixing my status code errors on my own, Credit Comeback Club helped me successfully dispute 4 accounts with incorrect status codes, raising my score by 87 points in just 45 days!" — Michael T., Atlanta

2. ILLEGAL RE-AGING

WHAT TO LOOK FOR: The Date of First Delinquency (DOFD) has been changed to a more recent date, effectively extending how long negative information remains on your report.

EXAMPLE SCENARIO: A credit card account first went delinquent in January 2018, but after it was sold to a collection agency, the DOFD was changed to March 2022. This illegal re-aging would allow the negative item to appear for 4+ additional years.

DISPUTE STRATEGY: Demand immediate deletion based on violation of FCRA Section 623(a)(5), which prohibits changing the DOFD. Provide any documentation showing the original delinquency date.

DID YOU KNOW? Illegal re-aging is one of the most common violations we find at Credit Comeback Club, yet most consumers never identify it. We've helped dozens of clients remove illegally re-aged accounts entirely. Let us check your report

3. BALANCE MISMATCHES

WHAT TO LOOK FOR: Reported balances that don't match your records, especially with charge-offs, collections, or settled accounts.

EXAMPLE SCENARIO: You settled a debt for $3,000 on a $7,500 balance and have documentation proving the settlement was completed. However, your credit report still shows the full $7,500 balance or incorrectly shows a balance remaining.

DISPUTE STRATEGY: Challenge the balance accuracy and provide settlement documentation showing the correct amount paid and that no balance remains. Request verification of the reported amount.

4. DUPLICATE ACCOUNTS

WHAT TO LOOK FOR: The same debt appearing twice on your report, often with different account numbers or creditor names, artificially inflating your utilization ratio.

EXAMPLE SCENARIO: A credit card debt appears once under the original creditor and again under a collection agency, or the same mortgage is reported twice due to a servicing transfer.

DISPUTE STRATEGY: Identify both account numbers and request deletion of the duplicate entry. Cite FCRA requirements that information must be accurate and not misleading, and duplicate reporting creates a false impression of your credit profile.

5. MISSING PAYMENT HISTORY

WHAT TO LOOK FOR: Incomplete payment history reporting, especially where positive payment history is omitted while negative information is retained.

EXAMPLE SCENARIO: You made 24 on-time payments on an account before experiencing 3 late payments. However, the credit report only shows the 3 late payments and omits the 24 positive payments.

DISPUTE STRATEGY: Request verification of complete payment history. If the creditor cannot provide accurate and complete payment history, demand deletion of the account under FCRA requirements for complete and accurate reporting.

6. INCORRECT CREDITOR INFORMATION

WHAT TO LOOK FOR: Wrong original creditor information, especially with debt buyers, or incorrect account ownership details.

EXAMPLE SCENARIO: A debt buyer reports an account but fails to indicate the original creditor, or reports incorrectly that they are the original creditor when they purchased the debt from another company.

DISPUTE STRATEGY: Challenge the creditor information accuracy and request verification of the chain of ownership. If they cannot provide proper documentation showing the correct chain of title, request deletion.

7. EXPIRED REPORTING PERIOD

WHAT TO LOOK FOR: Negative items still appearing after the 7-year reporting period has expired (measured from the Date of First Delinquency).

EXAMPLE SCENARIO: A charge-off from February 2018 is still appearing on your credit report in March 2025, exceeding the 7-year limit.

DISPUTE STRATEGY: Demand immediate removal, citing FCRA Section 605(a) which limits most negative information to 7 years. Calculate the exact date when the item should have been removed and include this in your dispute.

TIME IS MONEY: Each month you wait to dispute these errors costs you in higher interest rates and denied opportunities. Our members see results in as little as 30 days. Join Credit Comeback Club today
